THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS

VOL. XII. THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14, 1916. No. 10

COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. TO BE RE-ESTABLISHED

The Merger with Union Dissolved. Work Again to Be on Independent Basis.

The previous issue of the Campus contained a statement to the effect that a college Y. M. C. A. was to be re-established at Middlebury. This deserves more than a passing comment, for it is the first step toward renewed activity in a field in which Middlebury ought by all means to be actively engaged—the field of Christian service. The progress of the college in this line of endeavor must surely keep pace with the boom in athletics and in material growth which we are now experiencing if the motto on the college seal, "Scientia et Virtus," is to be our watchword and not a mere pedantic Latin phrase.

The present Seniors and Juniors remember the old Y. M. C. A. as a weak and inefficient organization, severely afflicted with dry-rot. Why? Because it wasn't doing anything. We believe that when the new students come here next fall, they will find a strong organization, ready to begin active work and to push that work along, for the new Y. M. C. A. will be an expansion of a club that has been doing something and getting results.

The Christian Service Club was organized in the spring of 1915, starting with a membership of eight men. On a Sunday in May, three of those men walked out to the Munger street schoolhouse, four miles northeast of the village, and held the first deputation meeting. There were forty people gathered there that night. The work was kept up during the remainder of the college year, services being held regularly every Sunday evening. It was renewed the next fall; in November work was also begun at Case street, and meetings were held intermittently at a schoolhouse in Ripton. Meanwhile the membership of the Club grew until there were twenty-three names on the roll. Of these twenty-three men, about fifteen have taken an active part in the work.

What the Club has done is only a beginning—a very small part of what must be done if Middlebury is to take its rightful place among New England colleges. Communications have come to the Secretary from the headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. in New York, asking for reports on what we are doing in the line of missionary work, and of work among the immigrants. We are obliged to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, which is, that we are doing little or nothing — mainly nothing—along those lines. Now, this state of affairs is not due to any lack of men to take up the work, for we know that there are more than fifteen men in this college who are interested in Christian service. It is due rather to the lack of a recognized Christian organization such as the Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. is everywhere

FOUNDING OF THE DOSHISHA UNIVERSITY

Story of Establishment of Japanese Institution. "Middlebury Hall" Fund Progresses.

A movement has been started at Middlebury to erect a dormitory at the Doshisha in Japan. One fact given in outlining the plan was the work of Mr. Suzuki in starting the fund to build our present gynmasium. We should like to put forth another claim that the Doshisha has, not particularly on Middlebury, but on the State of Vermont. The first money raised in this country for the Doshisha came from Vermont. The Doshisha was really founded from Rutland.

The following story relates to a tradition in the Congregational Church at Rutland. The writer has not atempted to verify dates.

In the '70's, Joseph Neesima graduated from Amherts College. He had the vision of establishing on his return to Japan a school modelled on the lines of an American college. But where should he get the money? He was nothing but a Japanese graduate of Amherst with no pull on anybody's purse strings.

He turned for help to the American Board of Foreign Missions. But at that time the Board was in a poor financial condition and offered no encouragement. Neesima tried other means with no success. Finally, just before he was about to return to Japan, he made one more appeal to the American Board.

That year, for some reason not easily seen, the American Board had its annual meeting in Rutland. Neesima asked to be allowed to present his plea at this meeting. The Board at first refused, for they needed all the money they could get to apply along other lines. But Mr. Neesima was persistent and finally the Board granted him five minutes at the very end of their program on the last day.

A convention in Rutland at that time was a big thing. The meeting on the afternoon of the last day of the American Board's convention was open to the public and the church was packed to the doors. At that time the church seated about 2500. Speaker after speaker addressed this immence audience; noted ministers and inspired laymen. At last the program drew to a close. At 5:30 the last speaker was introduced, Joseph Neesima, from Japan, just graduated from Amherst, and about to return to his native country. The audience was restless.

Before them appeared a very small, insignificant Japanese. He spoke his allotted five minutes and the chairman of the meeting hinted for him to stop, but Mr. Neesima had found his chance and he kept his feet. You could have heard a pin drop in that vast auditorium as this little man poured his impassioned plea for his ignorant brethren who had no chance for an education. At the end of half an hour he stopped and asked if an offering might be taken to

POET JOHN G. SAXE CENTENNIAL NOTED

Anniversary of Middlebury Poet Recognized by Metropolitan Papers.

The announcement that Middlebury College will celebrate at its approaching commencement the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of John G. Saxe has served to call attention to the poet whose name was once a household word in Vermont. Aside from a very complimentary article in the New York Sun, the New York Times paid a tribute to Saxe with an appreciative word concerning Middlebury College. The grandson to whom the Times referred is Hon. John G. Saxe, who has been announced to deliver an address on the poet at the commencement dinner. The Brattleboro Reformer published the following article of special interest at this time:

"Friday was the 100th anniversary of the birth of John G. Saxe, who is generally rated as the greatest poet that Vermont has ever produced, although the writer believes his verses lack the beauty of expression and sentiment found in the writing of Julia C. R. Dorr. But Saxe's merry, tripping lines were artistic and musical and expressed much shrewd philosophy and gentle satire. Many of them are of the kind that used to liven up the program of a last-day-of school ceremony and are still known by heart by not a few of the older generation. They are still good reading and stand the wear of time better than the humorous writings of most of the poet's contemporaries. Saxe was a genuine Vermonter. He was born in Highgate, was graduated from Middlebury College, practiced law and edited newspapers in this State and New York, and twice he was the Democratic candidate for governor of Vermont.

1917 Kaleidoscope Appears

A most welcome visitor made its appearance on the campus Saturday, namely, the 1917 Kaleidoscope. Since its arrival was necessarily postponed, its reception was cordial, as befits the work itself. Its appearance is very attractive, adorned as it is in a green cover lettered in gold. The new idea of dividing the work into five separate books is clever and well worked out, the divisions being those of college, classes, organization, athletics, and contributions. Especially pleasing is the group of college pictures which first greets the eye. It is aptly dedicated to our benefactor, A. Barton Hepburn. It being impossible to dwell upon the superior qualities of the work, it is only fitting to mention the clever write-ups, the excellent cuts, the humorous contributions, and, above all, the careful editing of the work. Surely it is a book of which the class of 1917 and Middlebury College may well be proud. Much praise is due Editor-in-Chief Adams and his assistants for their excellent work.

The following men have been awarded their M's in track for the past season: Bresnahan, Brewster, Condit, Darby, Hollister, Jones, Lamere, Lee, Paulsen, Tatro.

SYRACUSE UNIV. 7 MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE 1

Fast New York Team Bunch Hits in 3rd and 4th Clinching Easy Victory.

The varsity received a decisive defeat Tuesday afternoon, June 6th, on Porter Field, at the hands of the fast Syracuse University team.

The visitors, fresh from a 1 to 0 victory over the Army at West Point on Saturday, making their record stand 18 out of their last 20 games, were out to add another win to their credit.

Things broke Middlebury's way in the first, when, with two down, Mott hit a line drive close to the left field foul line, which bounded into foul territory, going under the fence allowing him to circle the bases for our only tally of the game.

Crippen disposed of the visitors easily in the first two innings, but the trouble started in the third. Slater, the first man up, was an easy victim on strikes, Meehan was passed and Christian let Hamilton's easy roller get through him, giving the runner two bases, Meehan taking third. Ahern was the second out on a roller to Crippen, but Walker finding Crippen's offerings especially to his liking, brought both runners home on a clean single to left. Morgan was the third out on a grounder to third.

For Middlebury in their half of the inning, Robinson was safe on an infield error, and after Sears was passed, things looked good for more scoring, but Keith was equal to the occasion, striking out the next three men to face him.

The visitors, not satisfied with their one run lead, started right after "Crip" in the fourth. Brown hit the first ball pitched, over the left field fence for a home run. Rafter was out on an infield fly. Conalle was safe when Mott missed a third strike. Keith hit to right, taking second on the next pitch and then Meehan duplicated Brown's feat earlier in the inning, clearing the bases.

This ended the visitors scoring until the ninth when they scored their last tally on an error, a stolen base followed by Hamilton's two bagger.

Athletic Council Election.

An important meeting of the Athletic Council was held Monday afternoon. The matter of track captaincy was first considered. As there was a tie between Lee, '17, and Hollister, '17, for track captaincy, the Athletic Council decided that the man having the greater number of points should receive the honor. Lee, '17, having the greater number, therefore was elected captain. At the same meeting Edmunds, '17, was elected manager of baseball, and Wright, '18, assistant manager. Mason, '17, was elected manager of track, and Coleman, '18, assistant manager.

These men have rightly earned these honors by their labors in the past season, and deserve the backing of the teams and student-body during the coming year.

EDITORIAL.

As this issue goes to press, the realization is forced upon us that in just one more week another year will come to a close, and with it the consummation or failure of many of our cherished hopes. On the whole, we look back over a well-fought year in which many advances have been made in the work of building up and developing our college. Looking ahead for a very brief space, we contemplate the coming Commencement as the best that Middlebury has ever held, for we are to register the happy results of a long and erstwhile doubtful campaign.

We have many things to rejoice over at this festive season, and we extend to the returning alumni a cordial hand of welcome, bidding them come prepared to enjoy to the full the many surprises which await them. Each year has contributed something of permanent value to the college, but none since its foundation can begin to compare with the present whose close we are about to celebrate. Our pride is fully justified, for not only has our material prosperity greatly increased, but in far more significant ways have we made still greater advances. A college cannot be judged by its material prosperity any more than a man can be judged by his bank account. We do not base our claims to success solely on the fact that our Memorial Chapel is the pride of the campus, and that Hepburn Hall represents almost the last word in dormitory design. The underlying, unseen currents which bear up the life of a community determine it course and point the way to success or failure. It is a very difficult matter to lay one's finger on any particular spot and say, lo, here! or lo, there! but we we have felt during the past year that a strong, deep current has set in the right direction and will continue. Such a spirit is evidenced by the higher activities which the college has recently taken up, and a new spirit of democracy which is fighting its way to the front. For these more intangible evidences of our health we bid you seek.

To the Seniors.

It seems fitting that the College should extend a few words of congratulation to the many members of the Senior class, who have been so fortunate as to secure positions for the next year. The last semester of the college course is always bound to be trying with the many demands upon one. Each is determined to enjoy every minute and make every day count. Very often the last weeks are decisive ones in the college student's plans. Usually he is more or less disturbed by the thoughts of what he will do after graduation. Of course everyone is resolved to make good somewhere, and in some way show what college has done for him. All too often the Future stands forth with too much vagueness for comfort. However, it is not a time for discouragement nor intense worry, but for firm trust and perseverance. It is, then, with sincere feeling we congratulate those whose paths seem determined through the agency of our Pedagogy Department or personal initiative, and to those still waiting the call to duty we extend our best wishes and assurance of a bright future.

Middlebury's Great Day.

Springfield Reporter,

The coming Commencement at Middlebury will be specially notable for several reasons:—The new Mead Memorial chapel will then be formally opened to the public; the Hepburn dormitory and commons will be dedicated; the centennial of the birth of John G. Saxe, one of Middlebury's many famous graduates, will be celebrated; Howard Elliott, president of the New York New Haven and Hartford railroad, will be one of the commencement speakers; and the new organ from the Estey Organ company will greet, for the first time, music lovers who visit the old college at commencement time. President Thomas, under whose administration Middlebury has made steady advance, has given a most attractive program for the 116th annual close of the school year, and the occasion ought to bring a phenomenally large attendance.

Connecticut High School Holds Middlebury College Night.

A custom which high schools throughout the country might do well to copy is that of holding near the end of the school year, a series of lectures on colleges.

A series of this sort was held a short time ago at Crosby High (Waterbury, Conn.) and proved a decided success, creating great enthusiasm for college education in general.

The lectures this year included Yale, M. I. T., Middlebury, and Wellesley, one night being given to each.

Miss Margaret Croft of the Crosby faculty, and a graduate of Middlebury College gave the lecture on Middlebury. Miss Croft presented in a very interesting manner the details as to location, expense, and advantages for securing all-round education, which this small co-education institutional offers.

"There are several Crosby graduates now at Middlebury, and an enthusiastic group of sub-freshmen are looking forward to this college as their alma mater." If only more of our "old grads" would catch the spirit of Miss Croft!

Work of Christian Service Club.

The Christian Service Club has been the only organization of religious activity in the Men's College this past year. There have been 32 regular midweek meetings held and 20 meetings before Sunday chapel, at which various members of the faculty have spoken on college aspects of Christianity. Twice, representatives of national college men's Christian organizations have spoken here under the auspices of the club. There has been a total of 58 deputation meetings held at Munger and Case street districts and at Ripton. Delegates have represented the club at the Conference of Christian College Men at Boston, Easter week and at the State Y. M. C. A. Convention at Burlington May 26th. The membership this year was 150% over last year. One of the additional aims next year will be to find church connections for the men of the incoming class. Tonight the club will organize into a Y.M.C.A. Middlebury needs such a body and there is an opportunity for every live man to help. Let's all turn out tonight and give it a good start.

The Ben Greet Players.

The Ben Greet Woodland Players, who were so enthusiastically received last year, have been again secured for Commencement. They will present "As You Like It" for the matinee and "The Taming of the Shrew" in the evening. The plays will be held at 3:00 and 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday, June 20.

Miss Elsie Herndon Kearns will play the leading female roles. If the weather is favorable the plays will be presented on the college campus in true Shakespearean style. In case of rain the plays will be given in the McCullough gymnasium. A seating plan which can be adopted to the gymnasium has been arranged, so that the seats will be the same relative distance from the stage whether the plays are given outdoors or indoors.

The tickets for the matinee are 50 and 75 cents and for the evening performance 50 cents and $1.00: all seats reserved. The tickets will go on sale at Sheldon's Drug Store Saturday, June 10, at 10:00 a. m.

Meeting of Civics Club.

A meeting of the Civics Club was held June 10 for the purpose of electing officers and choosing members of the executive council for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected: President, K. Ball, '17; vice-president, V. Richardson, '17. The members of the executive council are: V. Richardson, '17, Chairman; M. Holmes, '17, Senior member; L. Smith, '18, Junior member; E. Fellows, '18, Sophomore member; K. Ball, '17, ex-officio. This club was started with great enthusiasm this year, and the loyal support of every member is greatly desired.

Women's Musical Association

A very interesting meeting of the Women's Musical Association was held Saturday in the Social Hall at Pearsons, with a quorum present, for the election of officers. The following were elected: President, V. Richardson, '17; vice-president, L. Reynolds, '18; secretary and treasurer, R. Cann, '19.

The "Children's Party" which was to have been held last Saturday night in Pearsons Social Hall was postponed indefinitely on account of examinations.

start the work which was so near his heart. The Board was astonished at his daring. They readily saw the effect he had produced on the audience. The taking of the offering was not started at once. Neesima was perplexed. What should he do next? Everybody waited for somebody else to do something. What would the next move be? It came; John B. Page, at that time governor of the state, rose in his seat and offered a personal check to Neesima for $500. At once the audience "took fire." The offering was speedily taken and that nigh, Neesima left Rutland for Japan with $2000 in his pocket.

This is the story of the beginning of the great work at the now famous Doshisha. What part will Middlebury take in carrying it on?

THE PRESENT SITUATION.

The campaign which was started two weeks ago to raise money for the building of Middlebury Hall, has been pushed with vigor during the past week. The results of the campaign have so far been highly satisfactory, and the outlook is very promising. The Doshisha committee have been making a personal canvass of the entire student body and the Faculty as well. The college has responded to the call, and the subscriptions to date total nearly $350 for the Faculty and student body. Subscriptions have already come in from the alumni, many of the contributions being quite large.

Let us bear in mind that there is a great deal to be done before the necessary fund is raised, and we should make a strenuous effort to keep up enthusiasm now that the newness of the idea has worn off. The project which we have undertaken is one of great importance to Middlebury, and a great deal depends on the way in which we handle it. Let each one take the initiative.

A request is made of all giving to the fund that letters be addressed to Harold M. Davis, Treasurer, because the chairman of the committee exp cts to go abroad during the summer.

Some Base Ball!

The Senior and Junior girls were defeated by the Sophomore and Freshmen girls in a hard fought game of baseball, on Pearsons athletic field Monday, June 12. The game was called at five-thirty, and continued until the supper bell rang at six, when the girls took "time out" and finished the game afterwards playing nine innings. "Hank" Fisher and "That-a-boy" Besiegal were the star-players of the Senior-Junior team, and "Doc" Henderson and "Get-'em-kid" Clift were the stars of the Sophomere-Freshmen team. The line-up was as follows:

SEN-JUN	SOPH-FRESH

Besiegal, '16, 1b	Stilphen, '19, 1b

The score was 22 to 3 in favor of the Sophomore-Freshmen team.

COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. TO BE RE-ESTABLISHED

known as a powerful and uplifting organization. It is at work in the cities, in rural districts, among schoolboys, college students, farmers, railroad men, sailors, immigrants, miners; it is carrying on relief work among the victims of the Great War; providing resting-places for the soldiers who come in from the trenches; furnishing reading matter and entertainment to the thousands of men who are detained in prison-camps, many of whom were going insane because they formerly had nothing to do to occupy their time. In short, the Y. M. C. A. is doing good here and there the world over, among all sorts and conditions of men.

Middlebury ought by all means to have a part, however mall, in this tremendous work. Let it be clearly understood that the Christian Service Club is not seeking to toot its own horn, nor make a big splurge over what has been done. It has strongly felt the need of re-establishing the Y. M. C. A. here, and is endeavoring to set on foot an enterprise which requires the co-operation of every man in college

The complaint is sometimes heard that we are overburdened with clubs and societies already, and so we are. Besides the fraternities and the Union, there are literary societies, dramatic societies, debating societies, and societies. But note and ponder carefully the fact that with the exception of the Y.W.C.A., these are all secular. After the Y. M. C. A. breathed its last, there was no recognized religious organization among the men.

"The builders of Middlebury were men of deep religious faith and earnest moral purpose." Would we be proud to have them visit us today and find fifteen men actively engaged in Christian work? The call to service is more urgent than ever before. Are we going to respond or not? If we are, let us do so with all earnestness, and with the determination to make the Y. M. C. A. a living, vital force. It can be done; it must be done.

1918 vs. 1919 Contests at an End.

By beating the Sophomores at baseball the 1919 class has accomplished the feat of engaging in the various Freshman-contests without having a defeat registered against them, although in two events they have had to be content with a tie. They started off with a rush last fall with the intention of winning the first event, the football game. It was a hard-fought contest on both sides and when the whistle blew the score was 3-3, both teams having secured a goal from the field. The hat scrap, from which 1919 emerged victor by a close margin, was the next event. The rival classes next met in a rope pull before the grand stand at a foot ball game last fall. Inspired by the presence of the co-eds in the stand, two ropes were quickly broken and the best that could be done was to call this event also a tie. Moreover, the 1919 athletes had no great difficulty in winning their track meet from the Sophomores. The basket ball games were both very close but the Freshmen had the large end of the score on both occasions. And then came the baseball game, which was anybody's until the seventh inning, when the Freshmen scored four runs and eventually won the game by a 9-6 score. The contests have all been hard fought by the Sophomores, but the Freshmen have always managed to pull through at the last moment, so the fact will remain, however greatly 1918 may hate to admit it, that the athletic prowess of 1919 is superior.

COMMENCEMENT ORGAN RECITAL

The exercises of Commencement Week will begin with an organ recital at the opening of the Mead Memorial Chapel, on Saturday evening, June 17. A very elaborate program has been worked out, and it represents the finest thing that has ever come to Middlebury. Mr. Ernest L. Mehaffey of Boston will give the recital. Miss Fanny Lott, the famous soprano soloist, will be the star of the evening. Her work needs no comment from us; the announcement that she is to be here is sufficient to insure a most excellent program. The recital, which is to be free, is of the highest order, and the college has spared no pains to secure the very best talent. It is anticipated that the new chapel will be filled to the doors.

ALBANY TEACHERS AGENCY

Incorporated

Supplies Schools of All Grades with Competent Teachers
Assists Teachers in Obtaining Positions

We receive calls for wide-awake and progressive teachers from every State in the Union. and we want more such teachers upon our lists.

We believe no agency in the country has done more for its clients or secured positions for a larger proportion of them. For several years we have had more positions than candidates, and we can certainly be of service to college graduates who wish to teach and WHO ARE QUALIFIED TO DO GOOD WORK.

Senior Ball.

The annual Senior ball, that will bring Commencement Week and the college year to a close, comes on the evening of Wednesday, June 21st. The committee assures us that their arrangements are complete, and that the dance will be up to its usual high standard. A fine orchestra has been secured. Tickets are on sale in the hands of the committee at $3 each. Don't miss it if you are in Middlebury.

Gift to Library.

The college library has recently received a bequest of the private library of Deacon George N. Boardman, '47, formerly of Pittsford. This library comprises about 2500 volumes on religious and theological subjects. About a quarter of these will be brought here at once and added to the catalogued books. Deacon Boardman was a former instructor and trustee of the college as well as graduate.
